

Practice Newsletter October 2010

For the last twelve months our practice has been involved in raising money for Help for Heroes. In particular, we are helping to sponsor Kevin Baker in his trek across the Annapurna Mountain Range in Nepal in November.

In addition to financial support, the practice has equipped Kevin with a pair of Maui Jim UV protection sun spectacles, as levels of UV in that area are reported to be high and can cause corneal keratitis, a very painful and potentially damaging condition. Kevin will be accompanied on his travels by his mascot Jim - our Maui parrot. We wish Kevin success in his enterprise, and look forward to hearing about the trials and tribulations of the trip on his return.

Please contact the practice if you wish to add your sponsorship, or make a donation.
There is still time.

Thanks to all our patients who have already contributed to this great cause.
